*A Survey of Citizens'
Awareness and Opinions
About the Eric Rudolph/
Birmingham Abortion Clinic
Bombing Case in the Southern Division of the Northern District of Alabama*

Results of a survey conducted by

Southern Opinion Research

January, 2004

Introduction

This report presents the results of a telephone survey of 400 self-described registered voters living in the Southern Division of the Northern District of Alabama. The survey was conducted by Southern Opinion Research. The interviews for the survey were completed between January 9 and 11, 2004. A copy of the questionnaire used in survey is presented in Appendix A

In conducting the survey, a method of random digit dialing was employed. Within contacted households, the "last birthday" method was used to identify randomly which adult voter to interview. Each of the respondents in the survey said that he or she was currently registered to vote in Alabama. The sample was stratified to reflect the populations of the three counties (Blount, Jefferson, and Shelby) within the Southern Division of the Northern District of Alabama. The interviewing in the survey was conducted by a trained, supervised staff of professional telephone interviewers. Information about the response rate for the survey is presented in Appendix B.

All probability samples contain some sampling error - the extent to which the views of respondents differ from the views held by the entire population from which the sample was selected. For this survey, one can be 95 percent confident that the results from the sample are not more than approximately 5 percent different from that of the entire population of registered voters in the Southern Division of the Northern District of Alabama. Sampling error is larger when subgroups of respondents are examined. Sampling error does not reflect the influence of other factors such as question wording, question order, or interviewer effect, which can also influence the result of the survey.

In the statistical tables presented here, percentages may not always sum to exactly 100 percent because of rounding.

Unprompted awareness of
Rudolph/Abortion Clinic bombing case

Respondents were asked if they could "recall reading or hearing anything about any specific murder case which occurred in the Birmingham, Alabama area" since 1998. About 42 percent of the respondents say that they can recall a specific murder case (Table 1).

Those who say that they could recall a specific murder case were then asked what they remember reading or hearing about the incident. About 11 percent of these individuals (about 5 percent of all respondents) mention the Eric Rudolph/abortion clinic bombing case. (The specific comments made by individuals who say that they can recall a specific murder case are presented in Appendix C.)

Respondents were then asked if recall "hearing or reading about a murder case involving a bomb being set off outside a women's health clinic in Birmingham, Alabama in January, 1998?" About 97 percent of the respondents said that they do recall this case (Table 2) Those who say that they do recall the this case were asked what they remember reading or hearing about the incident. Responses to this questions are presented in Appendix D.

In order to provide individuals with a common base of knowledge, respondents who said that they have heard or read about the Birmingham women's health clinic bombing case were then given some background information about the incident. Respondents were then asked, "Based upon what you know about the Birmingham abortion clinic bombing case, do you think that Eric Robert Rudolph is definitely guilty, probably guilty, possibly guilty, possibly not guilty, probably not guilty or definitely not guilty?"

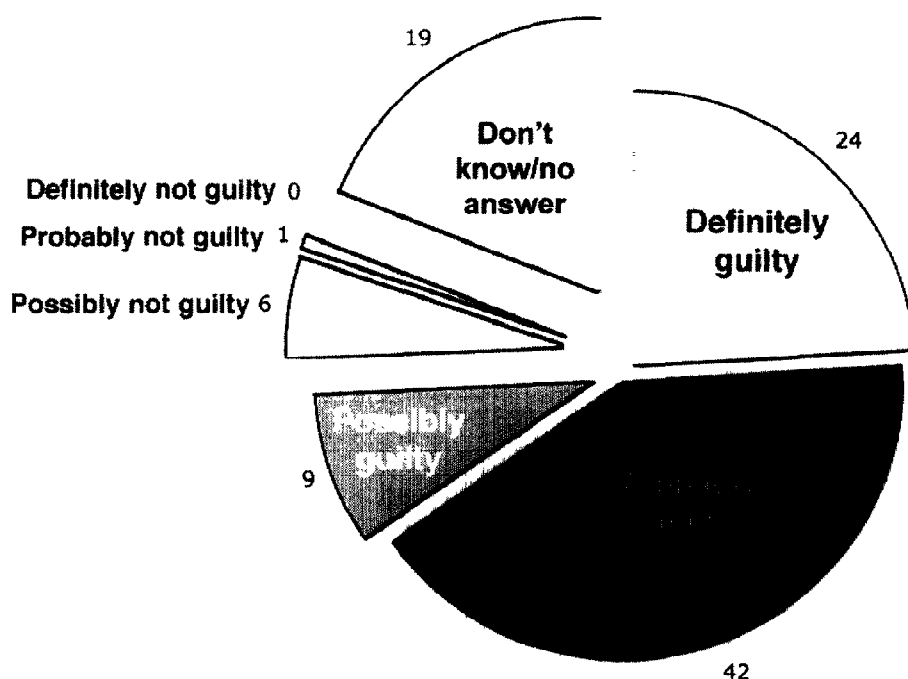

Table 3 shows that about 24 percent of these individuals said that Eric Rudolph is "definitely guilty" while 42 percent believe he is "probably guilty." An additional 9 percent say that Rudolph is "probably guilty." In contrast, about 6 percent of the respondents familiar with the case said that Rudolph is "possibly not guilty" and 1 percent believe he is "probably not guilty." Less than 1 percent of these respondents say that Rudolph is "definitely not guilty." About 19 percent of the respondents familiar with the case said that they don't know if Rudolph is guilty or refused to express an opinion about the issue.

Prompted awareness of
Rudolph/Abortion Clinic bombing case

Respondents who said that they can not recall hearing or reading about "a murder case involving a bomb being set off outside a women's health clinic in Birmingham, Alabama in January, 1998" were provided with information about the incident. They were then asked if they now recall "reading or hearing anything about the same." Each of these respondents (N=12) said that with this information they now remember the incident (Table 4). Further, about three-quarters of this group of individuals said that based upon the knowledge then now have "about the Birmingham abortion clinic bombing base," they believe that Eric Rudolph is definitely (25 percent), "probably" (25 percent) or "possibly" (25 percent) guilty.

Questionnaire used in survey

January 2004

Hello. My name is _____ and I am calling for Southern Opinion Research. We are conducting a survey about an important issue facing this part of Alabama. We are not trying to sell you anything. Rather we are trying to find out what citizens think about this issue.

Is this _____? (IF NOT CORRECT NUMBER, TERMINATE INTERVIEW)

It is important that we interview a random sample of people so that the results of our survey will truly represent all citizens living in this part of Alabama. We have found that the easiest way to obtain this random sample is to interview the registered voter living in this household who had the last or most recent birthday. I don't mean the youngest of these individuals. Rather I want to talk to the registered voter whose birthday occurred most recently. Is that person at home?

IF RESPONDENT AVAILABLE: start questionnaire

IF RESPONDENT NOT AVAILABLE: arrange callback:

(a) When would be a good time for us to call in order to talk with this person? (RECORD ON CALL SHEET)

(b) Who should we ask to speak with?

(RECORD ON CALL SHEET. REPEAT NAME BACK TO BE SURE YOU HAVE IT. IF RESPONDENT OBJECTS, SAY 'WE ONLY NEED THE PERSON'S FIRST NAME, THE LAST NAME IS UNNECESSARY,')

IF NECESSARY: Hello. This is _____ calling from Southern Opinion Research.

ALL RESPONDENTS: (As I stated before) We are conducting a survey about an important issue facing this part of Alabama. We would greatly appreciate your help in doing this survey. The interview will only take about _____ minutes. All your answers will be held completely confidential.

Before we begin, let me make one thing certain. Are you currently registered to vote in Alabama?
(If YES, continue. If NO, terminate interview)

January, 2004

Introduction

This report presents the results of a telephone survey of 400 self-described registered voters living in the Central Division of the Eastern District of Alabama. The survey was conducted by Southern Opinion Research. The interviews for the survey were completed between January 9 and 11, 2004. A copy of the questionnaire used in survey is presented in Appendix A

In conducting the survey, a method of random digit dialing was employed. Within contacted households, the "last birthday" method was used to identify randomly which adult voter to interview. Each of the respondents in the survey said that he/she was currently registered to vote in Alabama. The sample was stratified to reflect the populations of the three counties (Calhoun, Cherokee, Clay, Cleburne, DeKalb, Etowah, Marshall, St Clair and Talladega) within the Eastern Division of the Northern District of Alabama. The interviewing in the survey was conducted by a trained, supervised staff of professional telephone interviewers. Information about the response rate for the survey is presented in Appendix B.

All probability samples contain some sampling error - the extent to which the views of respondents differ from the views held by the entire population from which the sample was selected. For this survey, one can be 95 percent confident that the results from the sample are not more than approximately 5 percent different from that of the entire population of registered voters in the Eastern Division of the Northern District of Alabama. Sampling error is larger when subgroups of respondents are examined. Sampling error does not reflect the influence of other factors such as question wording, question order, or interviewer effect, which can also influence the result of the survey.

In the statistical tables presented here, percentages may not always sum to exactly 100 percent because of rounding error.

Unprompted awareness of Rudolph/Abortion Clinic bombing case

Respondents were asked if they could "recall reading or hearing anything about any specific murder case which occurred in the Birmingham, Alabama area" since 1998. About 37 percent of the respondents say that they can recall a specific murder case (Table 1).

Those who said that they could recall a specific murder case were then asked what they remember reading or hearing about the incident. About 14 percent of these individuals (about 5 percent of all respondents) mentioned the Eric Rudolph/abortion clinic bombing case. (The specific comments made by individuals who say that they can recall a specific murder case are presented in Appendix C.)

Respondents were then asked if they recall "hearing or reading about a murder case involving a bomb being set off outside a women's health clinic in Birmingham, Alabama in January, 1998?" About 92 percent of the respondents said they do recall this case (Table 2). Those who said that they do recall the this case were asked what they remember reading or hearing about the incident. Responses to this question are presented in Appendix D.

In order to provide individuals with a common base of knowledge, respondents who said that they have heard or read about the Birmingham women's health clinic bombing case were then given some background information about the incident. Respondents were then asked, "Based upon what you know about the Birmingham abortion clinic bombing case, do you think that Eric Robert Rudolph is definitely guilty, probably guilty, possibly guilty, possibly not guilty, probably not guilty or definitely not guilty?"

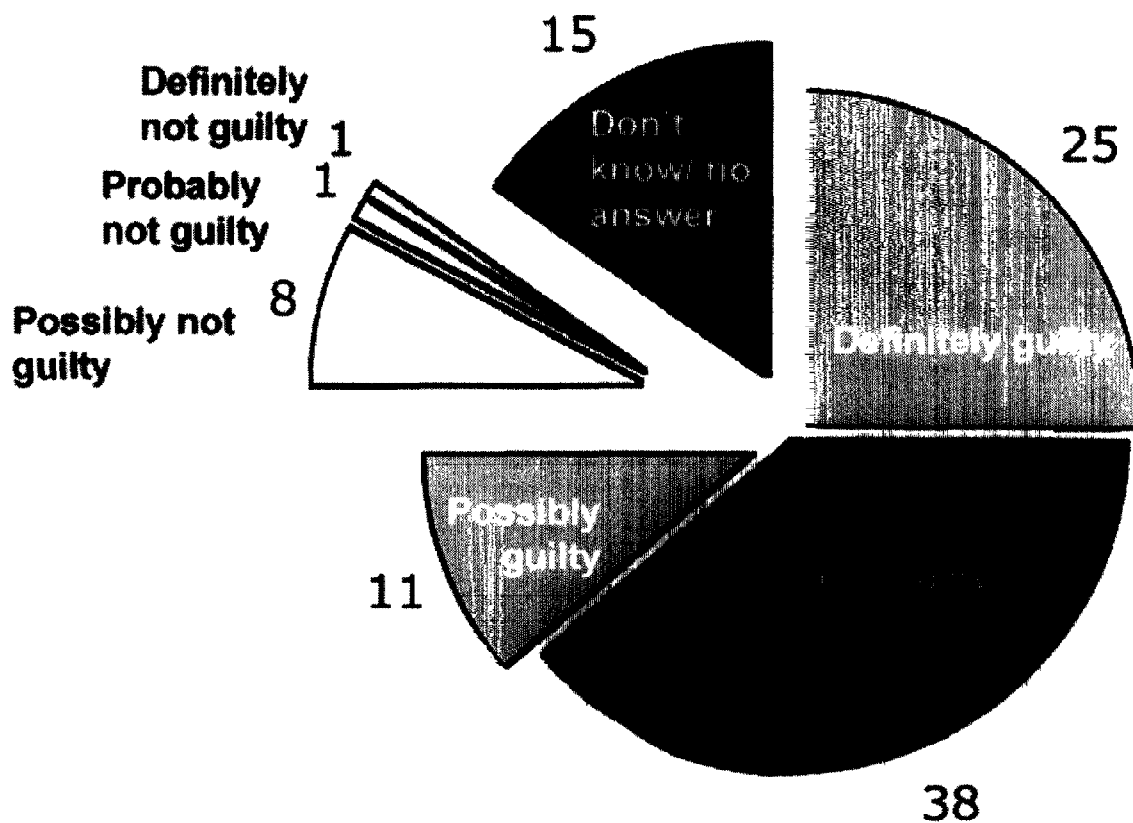

Table 3 shows that about 25 percent of these individuals said that Eric Rudolph is "definitely guilty" while 38 percent believe he is "probably guilty." An additional 11 percent said that Rudolph is "probably guilty." In contrast, about 8 percent of the respondents familiar with the case said that Rudolph is "possibly not guilty" and 1 percent believed he is "probably not guilty." An additional 1 percent of these respondents said that Rudolph is "definitely not guilty." About 15 percent of the respondents familiar with the case said that they don't know if Rudolph is guilty or refused to express an opinion about the issue.

Prompted awareness of Rudolph/Abortion Clinic bombing case

Respondents who said that they cannot recall hearing or reading about "a murder case involving a bomb being set off outside a women's health clinic in Birmingham, Alabama in January, 1998" were provided with information about the incident. They were then asked if they now recall "reading or hearing anything about the same." About three-quarters (77 percent) of these respondents (N=30) said that with this information they now remembered the incident (Table 4).

Further, among the respondents (N=23) who now say they recall reading or hearing about the Birmingham abortion clinic bombing case, a majority (56 percent) said that they believe Eric Rudolph is definitely (13 percent), "probably" (30 percent) or "possibly" (13 percent) guilty. About 8 percent say that Rudolph is either probably (4 percent) or definitely (4 percent) not guilty. About 35 percent of these respondents express no opinion about this issue.

Questionnaire used in survey

January 2004

Hello. My name is _____ and I am calling for Southern Opinion Research. We are conducting a survey about an important issue facing this part of Alabama. We are not trying to sell you anything. Rather we are trying to find out what citizens think about this issue.

Is this _____? (IF NOT CORRECT NUMBER, TERMINATE INTERVIEW)

It is important that we interview a random sample of people so that the results of our survey will truly represent all citizens living in this part of Alabama. We have found that the easiest way to obtain this random sample is to interview the registered voter living in this household who had the last or most recent birthday. I don't mean the youngest of these individuals. Rather I want to talk to the registered voter whose birthday occurred most recently. Is that person at home?

IF RESPONDENT AVAILABLE: start questionnaire

IF RESPONDENT NOT AVAILABLE: arrange callback:

(a) When would be a good time for us to call in order to talk with this person? (RECORD ON CALL SHEET)

(b) Who should we ask to speak with?
(RECORD ON CALL SHEET. REPEAT NAME BACK TO BE SURE YOU HAVE IT. IF RESPONDENT OBJECTS, SAY 'WE ONLY NEED THE PERSON'S FIRST NAME, THE LAST NAME IS UNNECESSARY,')

IF NECESSARY: Hello. This is _____ calling from Southern Opinion Research.

ALL RESPONDENTS: (As I stated before) We are conducting a survey about an important issue facing this part of Alabama. We would greatly appreciate your help in doing this survey. The interview will only take about _____ minutes. All your answers will be held completely confidential.

Before we begin, let me make one thing certain. Are you currently registered to vote in Alabama?
(If YES, continue. If NO, terminate interview)

*A Survey of Citizens'
Awareness and Opinions
About the Eric Rudolph/
Birmingham Abortion Clinic
Bombing Case in the Nashville Division of the Middle District of Tennessee*

Results of a survey conducted by

Southern Opinion Research

January, 2004

Introduction

This report presents the results of a telephone survey of 400 self-described registered voters living in the Nashville Division of the Middle District of Tennessee. The survey was conducted by Southern Opinion Research. The interviews for the survey were completed between January 9 and 11, 2004. A copy of the questionnaire used in survey is presented in Appendix A

In conducting the survey, a method of random digit dialing was employed. Within contacted households, the "last birthday" method was used to identify randomly which adult voter to interview. Each of the respondents in the survey said that he/she was currently registered to vote in Tennessee. The sample was stratified to reflect the populations of the three counties (Cannon, Cheatham, Davidson, Dickson, Houston, Humphries, Montgomery, Rutherford, Robertson, Stewart, Sumner, Trousdale, Williamson, and Wilson) within the Nashville Division of the Middle District of Tennessee. The interviewing in the survey was conducted by a trained, supervised staff of professional telephone interviewers. Information about the response rate for the survey is presented in Appendix B.

All probability samples contain some sampling error - the extent to which the views of respondents differ from the views held by the entire population from which the sample was selected. For this survey, one can be 95 percent confident that the results from the sample are not more than approximately 5 percent different from that of the entire population of registered voters in the Nashville Division of the Middle District of Tennessee. Sampling error is larger when subgroups of respondents are examined. Sampling error does not reflect the influence of other factors such as question wording, question order, or interviewer effect, which can also influence the result of the survey.

In the statistical tables presented here, percentages may not always sum to exactly 100 percent because of rounding.

Unprompted awareness of Rudolph/Abortion Clinic bombing case

Respondents were asked if they could "recall reading or hearing anything about any specific murder case which occurred in the Birmingham, Alabama area" since 1998. About 12 percent of the respondents say that they could recall a specific murder case (Table 1).

Those who said that they could recall a specific murder case were then asked what they remember reading or hearing about the incident. About 4 percent of these individuals (less than 1 percent of all respondents) mentioned the Eric Rudolph/abortion clinic bombing case. (The specific comments made by individuals who say that they can recall a specific murder case are presented in Appendix C.)

"Now, let me ask you to think about another topic. Thinking back over the last six years or so, that is back to 1998, do you recall reading or hearing anything about any specific murder case which occurred in the Birmingham, Alabama area?"

Semi-prompted awareness of Rudolph/Abortion Clinic bombing case

Respondents were then asked if they could recall "hearing or reading about a murder case involving a bomb being set off outside a women's health clinic in Birmingham, Alabama in January, 1998?" About 66 percent of the respondents said that they did recall this case (Table 2). Those who said that they did recall the this case were asked what they remember reading or hearing about the incident. Responses to this question are presented in Appendix D.

"Do you recall hearing or reading about a murder case involving a bomb being set off outside a women's health clinic in Birmingham, Alabama in January, 1998?"

YES	66%
NO	30
DK/NA	4

In order to provide individuals with a common base of knowledge, respondents who said that they have heard or read about the Birmingham women's health clinic bombing case were then given some background information about the incident. Respondents were then asked, "Based upon what you know about the Birmingham abortion clinic bombing case, do you think that Eric Robert Rudolph is definitely guilty, probably guilty, possibly guilty, possibly not guilty, probably not guilty or definitely not guilty?"

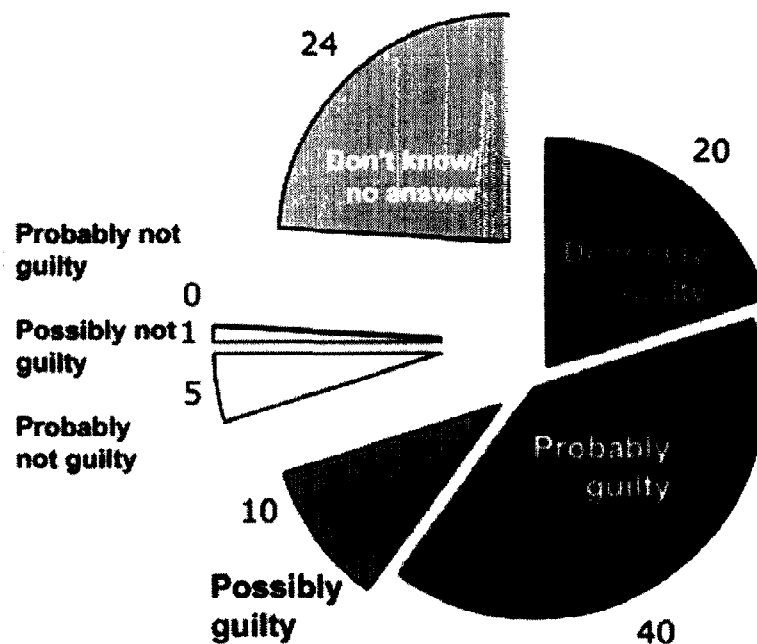

Table 3 shows that about 20 percent of these individuals said that Eric Rudolph is "definitely guilty" while 40 percent believe he is "probably guilty." An additional 10 percent said that Rudolph is "probably guilty." In contrast, about 5 percent of the respondents familiar with the case said that Rudolph is "possibly not guilty" and 1 percent believe he is "probably not guilty." None of these respondents said that Rudolph is "definitely not guilty." About 24 percent of the respondents familiar with the case said that they don't know if Rudolph is guilty or refuse to express an opinion about the issue.

(If heard of Birmingham bombing case) "As you may know, the bomb which exploded outside the Birmingham abortion clinic killed a police officer and injured a nurse. The person charged with the bombing is Eric Robert Rudolph. He was the subject of a large FBI manhunt in the mountains of western North Carolina which lasted for several years. He has been accused of being involved in several bombings in the Atlanta area, including one which took place during the Olympics. Based upon what you know about the Birmingham abortion clinic bombing case, do you think that Eric Robert Rudolph is definitely guilty, probably guilty, possibly not guilty, probably not guilty or definitely not guilty?"

Opinions about the possible guilt or innocence of Eric Rudolph
in the Nashville
Division of the Middle District of Tennessee

Based on a survey of 400 registered voters conducted Jan. 9-11, 2004 by Southern Opinion Research

Prompted awareness of Rudolph/Abortion Clinic bombing case

Respondents who said that they cannot recall hearing or reading about "a murder case involving a bomb being set off outside a women's health clinic in Birmingham, Alabama in January, 1998" were provided with information about the incident. They were then asked if they now recall "reading or hearing anything about this event." About 87 percent of these respondents (N=138) said that with this information they now remember the incident (Table 4).

Further, among the respondents (N=120) who now said they recall reading or hearing about the Birmingham abortion clinic bombing case, a majority (52 percent) say that they believe Eric Rudolph is definitely (12 percent), "probably" (31 percent) or "possibly" (14 percent) guilty. About 7 percent say that Rudolph is possibly or probably not guilty. About 41 percent of these respondents expressed no opinion about this issue.

(If not heard of Birmingham bombing case) "Now let me ask you about an event which occurred in Birmingham, Alabama in January, 1998. This event involved a bomb which exploded outside an abortion clinic. The explosion killed a police officer and injured a nurse. The person charged with the Birmingham abortion clinic bombing is Eric Robert Rudolph. Questionnaire used in survey of the Nashville Division of the Middle District of Tennessee

January 2004

Hello. My name is _____ and I am calling for Southern Opinion Research. We are conducting a survey about an important issue facing this part of Tennessee. We are not trying to sell you anything. Rather we are trying to find out what citizens think about this issue.

Is this _____? (IF NOT CORRECT NUMBER, TERMINATE INTERVIEW)

It is important that we interview a random sample of people so that the results of our survey will truly represent all citizens living in this part of Tennessee. We have found that the easiest way to obtain this random sample is to interview the registered voter living in this household who had the last or most recent birthday. I don't mean the youngest of these individuals. Rather I want to talk to the registered voter whose birthday occurred most recently. Is that person at home?

IF RESPONDENT AVAILABLE: start questionnaire

IF RESPONDENT NOT AVAILABLE: arrange callback:

(a) When would be a good time for us to call in order to talk with this person? (RECORD ON CALL SHEET)

(b) Who should we ask to speak with?
(RECORD ON CALL SHEET. REPEAT NAME BACK TO BE SURE YOU HAVE IT. IF RESPONDENT OBJECTS, SAY 'WE ONLY NEED THE PERSON'S FIRST NAME, THE LAST NAME IS UNNECESSARY,')

IF NECESSARY: Hello. This is _____ calling from Southern Opinion Research.

ALL RESPONDENTS: (As I stated before) We are conducting a survey about an important issue facing this part of Tennessee. We would greatly appreciate your help in doing this survey. The interview will only take about _____ minutes. All your answers will be held completely confidential.

Before we begin, let me make one thing certain. Are you currently registered to vote in Tennessee?
(If YES, continue. If NO, terminate interview)

What do you mean by that?

*A Survey of Citizens'
Awareness and Opinions
About the Eric Rudolph/
Birmingham Abortion Clinic
Bombing Case in the
Knoxville Division of the Eastern District of Tennessee*

Results of a survey conducted by

Southern Opinion Research

January, 2004

Introduction

This report presents the results of a telephone survey of 400 self-described registered voters living in the Knoxville Division of the Eastern District of Tennessee. The survey was conducted by Southern Opinion Research. The interviews for the survey were completed between January 9 and 11, 2004. A copy of the questionnaire used in survey is presented in Appendix A

In conducting the survey, a method of random digit dialing was employed. Within contacted households, the "last birthday" method was used to identify randomly which adult voter to interview. Each of the respondents in the survey said that he/she was currently registered to vote in Tennessee. The sample was stratified to reflect the populations of the three counties (Anderson, Blount, Campbell, Claiborne, Grainger, Jefferson, Knox, Loudon, Monroe, Morgan, Roane, Scott, Sevier and Union) within the Knoxville Division of the Eastern District of Tennessee. The interviewing in the survey was conducted by a trained, supervised staff of professional telephone interviewers. Information about the response rate for the survey is presented in Appendix B.

All probability samples contain some sampling error - the extent to which the views of respondents differ from the views held by the entire population from which the sample was selected. For this survey, one can be 95 percent confident that the results from the sample are not more than approximately 5 percent different from that of the entire population of registered voters in the Knoxville Division of the Eastern District of Tennessee. Sampling error is larger when subgroups of respondents are examined. Sampling error does not reflect the influence of other factors such as question wording, question order, or interviewer effect, which can also influence the result of the survey.

In the statistical tables presented here, percentages may not always sum to exactly 100 percent because of rounding.

Unprompted awareness of Rudolph/Abortion Clinic bombing case

Respondents were asked if they could "recall reading or hearing anything about any specific murder case which occurred in the Birmingham, Alabama area" since 1998. About 15 percent of the respondents said that they can recall a specific murder case (Table 1).

Those who said that they could recall a specific murder case were then asked what they remember reading or hearing about the incident. About 21 percent of these individuals (about 3 percent of all respondents) mentioned the Eric Rudolph/abortion clinic bombing case. (The specific comments made by individuals who said that they could recall a specific murder case are presented in Appendix C.)

Semi-prompted awareness of Rudolph/Abortion Clinic bombing case

Respondents were then asked if they could recall "hearing or reading about a murder case involving a bomb being set off outside a women's health clinic in Birmingham, Alabama in January, 1998?" About 77 percent of the respondents said that they do recall this case (Table 2). Those who said that they do recall this case were asked what they remember reading or hearing about the incident. Responses to this question are presented in Appendix D.

In order to provide individuals with a common base of knowledge, respondents who said that they have heard or read about the Birmingham women's health clinic bombing case were then given some background information about the incident. Respondents were then asked, "Based upon what you know about the Birmingham abortion clinic bombing case, do you think that Eric Robert Rudolph is definitely guilty, probably guilty, possibly guilty, possibly not guilty, probably not guilty or definitely not guilty?"

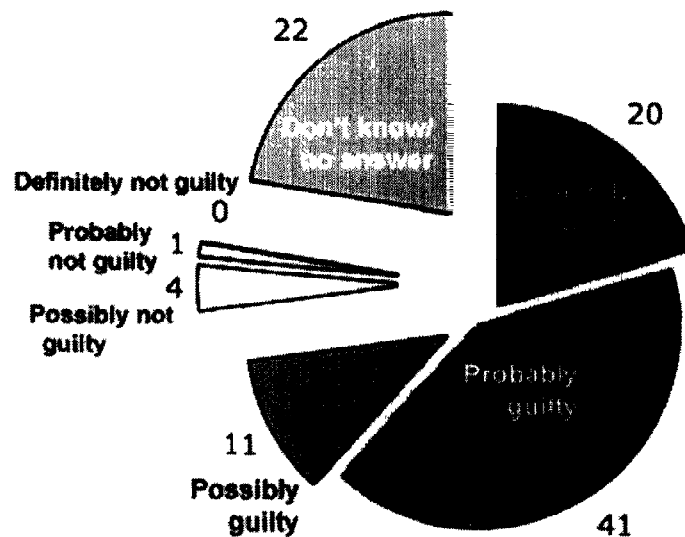

Table 3 shows that about 20 percent of these individuals say that Eric Rudolph is "definitely guilty" while 41 percent believe he is "probably guilty." An additional 11 percent say that Rudolph is "possibly guilty." In contrast, about 4 percent of the respondents familiar with the case said that Rudolph is "possibly not guilty" and 1 percent believed he is "probably not guilty." Less than 1 percent of these respondents said that Rudolph is "definitely not guilty." About 22 percent of the respondents familiar with the case said that they don't know if Rudolph is guilty or refuse to express an opinion about the issue.

Prompted awareness of Rudolph/Abortion Clinic bombing case

Respondents who said that they cannot recall hearing or reading about "a murder case involving a bomb being set off outside a women's health clinic in Birmingham, Alabama in January, 1998" were provided with information about the incident. They were then asked if they now recall "reading or hearing anything about this event." About 80 percent of these respondents (N=93) said that with this information they now remember the incident (Table 4).

Further, among the respondents (N=78) who now say they recall reading or hearing about the Birmingham abortion clinic bombing case, a majority (59 percent) said that they believe Eric Rudolph is "definitely" (11 percent), "probably" (34 percent) or "possibly" (14 percent) guilty. About 4 percent say that Rudolph is possibly not guilty. About 38 percent of these respondents express no opinion about this issue.

Questionnaire used in survey

January 2004

Hello. My name is _____ and I am calling for Southern Opinion Research. We are conducting a survey about an important issue facing this part of Tennessee. We are not trying to sell you anything. Rather we are trying to find out what citizens think about this issue.

Is this _____? (IF NOT CORRECT NUMBER, TERMINATE INTERVIEW)

It is important that we interview a random sample of people so that the results of our survey will truly represent all citizens living in this part of Tennessee. We have found that the easiest way to obtain this random sample is to interview the registered voter living in this household who had the last or most recent birthday. I don't mean the youngest of these individuals. Rather I want to talk to the registered voter whose birthday occurred most recently. Is that person at home?

IF RESPONDENT AVAILABLE: start questionnaire

IF RESPONDENT NOT AVAILABLE: arrange callback:

(a) When would be a good time for us to call in order to talk with this person? (RECORD ON CALL SHEET)

(b) Who should we ask to speak with?
(RECORD ON CALL SHEET. REPEAT NAME BACK TO BE SURE YOU HAVE IT. IF RESPONDENT OBJECTS, SAY 'WE ONLY NEED THE PERSON'S FIRST NAME, THE LAST NAME IS UNNECESSARY,')

IF NECESSARY: Hello. This is _____ calling from Southern Opinion Research.

ALL RESPONDENTS: (As I stated before) We are conducting a survey about an important issue facing this part of Tennessee. We would greatly appreciate your help in doing this survey. The interview will only take about _____ minutes. All your answers will be held completely confidential.

Before we begin, let me make one thing certain. Are you currently registered to vote in Tennessee?
(If YES, continue. If NO, terminate interview)
